Overall, the session was highly informative and educative to the aspiring and ever-enthusiastic students. The highly motivated students raised a variety of questions to the speaker to which he answered with unwavering enthusiasm. All the students were highly motivated and got to know about various tips in applying job in Pharma IT. Importance of Pharmacy Sector in the IT Field was discussed. Points such as Life science companies have high IT intensity. They spend considerably more than the composite sample, as measured by total IT spending per user and spending as a percentage of revenue. Life science companies spend a higher portion of their IT budgets on data center and network infrastructure than the average company, and they spend a correspondingly smaller portion on business application software. The size of the application support staff and spending on application software per user is typical, indicating that high data center and network infrastructure costs are the factors that drive IT spending in this sector. The staffing mix for life science companies is similar to other organizations. IT staffing headcount, therefore, can be benchmarked against similar-size organizations from all sectors. All together 50 students attended the session.
